Aim

Building on the success of previous years of apprenticeships, BF Adventure hope to train and inspire young people to work, and possibly gain a career, in the outdoor industry. The overarching aims are to:

1. Provide candidates with transferable skills though 13 months of training and engaging work
2. Provide a pathway for those that choose a career in either the outdoor industry or youth work
3. Allow for a progression into further employment at BF Adventure
4. Develop a cost effective and balanced work force

Objectives

The programme will look to develop people and provide BF Adventure with a flexible and well-trained work force by:

- a. Providing a dedicated period of three months for training with a minimum of 21 hours a week for training
- b. Provide a supported framework to enable delivery of activities to appropriate groups from April to September
- c. Engaging trainees to experience a range of other essential site duties including site support, equipment checks, core charity work, maintenance and ground keeping and administration to develop a full range of skills

Our training partners

Our delivery partners are Channel Training, it's their job to support, and guide apprentices though the Outdoor Activity Instructor standard. This apprenticeship is pitched at a level 3 and this is reflected in the course work expected from successful candidates. More details on the standard can be found on this link, and more information on channel training can be found on this link.

What stuff do you need for an apprenticeship?

BF Adventure will provide PPE suitable for your work and uniform so there is no need to rush out and purchase £1000's worth of equipment.

Learners will need to provide the following things on a daily basis:

- Good outdoor footwear – sturdy trainers or hiking boots are perfect
- Welly boots – simple but cost effective
- Old trainers for watersports
- Waterproof coat and trousers
- Plain dark clothes for working
- Spare clothes each day
- Hat and gloves
- Water and packed lunch
- Working personal mobile phone

Our training will start in January so conditions are very cold for learning watersports and learners will benefit hugely from having equipment of a higher quality than the provided standard issue. BF Adventure can provide access to our trade accounts for equipment purchases which will make the training more comfortable and promote quicker learning. Equipment available is:
